

GREAT WELCOME FOR WILSON COMING INTO N. Y. HARBOR

Cabinet and Other Officials, Battleships and Welcoming Committees Escort President's Ship With 2,000 Doughboys on Board, To Dock---Speaks in N. Y. This Afternoon and Leaves For Capital.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, July 5.—Escorted by five dreadnoughts and a number of destroyers, the transport George Washington, bearing President Wilson home from Europe, passed Ambrose Lightship, 16 miles from the Battery, at 10:30 this morning and steamed up the lower bay amid the booming of battleship salutes.

As the George Washington, convoyed by the Oklahoma, the four destroyers, which had accompanied her from Brest, arrived off the lightslip they were met by the dreadnoughts Pennsylvania, Utah, Delaware and North Dakota, which formed two lines through which the transport passed.

Gay with colors and noisy with brass bands, the Municipal Harbor boats (Correction and Mayor Gaynor) went down the bay to meet the George Washington. Among those on the craft were Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and 25 prominent labor leaders from Central and South America, who are here attending the pan-American labor conference.

The weather was delightful during the afternoon. A brilliant sun shone

The big guns of the Pennsylvania, flagship of Admiral Wilson, commanding the Atlantic fleet, roared in salute as the George Washington came abreast with the presidential party all on deck. The Utah, Delaware and North Dakota broke forth with twenty-one-gun salvos.

Vice President Marshall, members of the cabinet and a delegation of Democratic committeemen, headed by Champ Clark, swung about the George Washington in a big circle

FAVOR FABRIC HAT

Headgear That Is the Cause of a Creative Impulse.

Tulle, Georgette, Crepe de Chine and Other Summery Materials to Be Seen in Windows.

The fabric hat might be called the pitfall of the amateur milliner. Few indeed are the women who have not been seized at least once in their lives with the creative impulse in regard to a few short lengths of silk or muslin, a hat frame and a handful of dowers and ribbons.

It looks the easiest task in the world to produce a hat which shall at least be modestly successful out of almost any bit of left-over material, but it is only a fair warning that however much a joy the fabric hat may be in inspiration, in realization it is usually blank despair.

Once in a long time the amateur discovers a hidden vein of talent, but all too often the only results are pinched fingers, tears and trampled finery. A sadder and wiser woman realizes that the fabric hat requires the full measure of the trained milliner's skill in the fashioning.

Whether owing to a scarcity of straw or to a degree of fashion, the fabric hat appears to be occupying the foreground of the picture during the early summer.

Hats of tulle, hats of crepe de chine or of georgette crepe, grass-cloth hats, innumerable taffeta hats, hats of lace and purely summery hats of cotton fabric are making irresistible appeal from every milliner's window.

The tulle hat we have had with us all winter, but its extraordinary charm makes it difficult to abandon.

Afternoon Hat of Lavender Georgette.
A close toque of pink roses completely surrounded by a flaring Turkish turban of black tulle has a curious charm of its own, but it by no means has the chic of the closely folded snug dark brown tulle turban with the swirl of brown paradise springing from one side of its front.

A charming little poke shape formed of black tulle ruffles edged with jet, and fastened under the chin by a tulle strap is crowned by pink taffeta rose petals.

Taffeta hats of all shapes are in great favor, from the extremely broad brimmed, picturesque Second Empire shape with its drooping, wide black lace edge to the small, low-crowned

BOY SCOUTS

KNOW SCOUTS' "UNCLE DAN"

On one of the warm days last winter when National Scout Commissioner Daniel Carter Beard was on the way to take the train to a big scout celebration in New York state, he was delayed for some time in Hoboken.

The air being close and the scout commissioner being dressed in full uniform, he stepped outside in the street to obtain a little fresh air. Unconsciously drawing himself up and expanding his long, several times he made quite an imposing figure and was not aware that he was drawing a crowd of youngsters.

Lowering his chin after a full inhalation he discovered about twenty typical little street arabs around him. When they observed his gaze directed upon them, two of them suddenly stepped forward and saluted with military vigor.

"Uncle Dan" was amused, and thinking that they probably took him for some military officer, he said rather gruffly but amiably, "Who do you think you are saluting?" One of them came back with the words, "The Chief." "Chief who?" said Mr. Beard. "Ah, you is Dan Beard—we know you." It is hard for the idol of boyhood to dive into any circle high or low where he is not immediately recognized.

In order that all the older boys in the sea scouts of the Boy Scouts of America may be thoroughly grounded in life-saving and the kind of swimming necessary to help another in the water, the First Aid division of the American Red Cross in Washington has detailed Field Agent W. E. Longfellow to co-operate.

He is at the national headquarters of the scouts in New York, and working with Chief Sea Scout James A. Wilder, whose scouting experiences in the South seas makes him a mine of information and source of inspiration to scout leaders all over the world.

Commodore Longfellow has been in Red Cross service for five years and has just completed a tour of army posts and navy stations along the eastern coast, teaching Red Cross life-saving methods for water and land emergencies. More than 120,000 fighting men and civilians came under his instruction during the last year.

In the sea scouts, a boy who cannot swim and do life-saving cannot graduate from shore to robust activities; so that life-saving ability is one of the foundations of the sea scout training which the scout movement is offering the boys of America.

SCOUT TRAINING IS ENOUGH.

The state of New York, through its military training commission, is willing to recognize scout training as equivalent to the requirements of the military training law where the leadership is adequate and it can be established that the members of the troop actually receive the training made possible by the boy scout program.

Under no circumstances will the Boy Scouts of America permit the enrollment of boys as members of a troop merely for the purpose of seeking exemption from the provisions of the military training law.

As is made clear in the letter of the Boy Scouts of America to the military training commission, the primary motive in asking for the special arrangement by the commission was to conserve for the leadership in the Boy Scouts of America those scouts between years of age and over who were needed as patrol leaders, expert instructors and assistant scoutmasters, and who could not in many cases maintain membership in two organizations.

BIG BOOST FOR SCOUTS.

National headquarters received a letter recently from Gen. S. M. Foote, United States army, in which he says: "I have looked through the boy scout handbook and read a great part of it. One regret follows me all through the book, and that is that there was no boy scout movement when I was a boy. I shall keep the handbook as a book of reference for my own information."

Would that every man of high character who feels that regret should interest himself as General Foote is doing in making the boy scout movement known to more boys.

General Foote met many youths in the middle West unable to join the boy scouts, or as scouts were unable to go forward with their program because their leaders had gone to war.

Their leaders have now returned from war, as have thousands of men who should be scoutmasters.

Hat of Lavender Georgette.

sailor. One black taffeta hat which droops demurely at the sides is gayly decorated with trailing bunches of yellow, rose and mauve flowers and has in addition a blue ribbon about the crown.

Taffeta hats of the taller crowned persuasion are frequently decorated with embroidery as their only trimmings, with the exception of a narrow ribbon tied about the crown. The embroidery may be in bright wools, but it is more often in silken threads, raised in bold relief, but of the same color as the taffeta.

Crepe de chine has a rather limited use for summer fabric-hats, but concrete crepe is in high favor for both large and small shapes and nearly always in light and exquisite colors. The broad shapes usually have a deepening edge of one thickness of the crepe, but they may be bound with a fold and they are, nearly always, crowned or wreathed about by flowers or fruit, or both, in exquisite shades.

IN FASHION LAND.

Waists are rather tight. Flower-trimmed hats are popular. Skirts have flounces in the back. The hat "off the face" is fashionable. For sport wear, rose is a favorite color.

Stockings with clocks are fashionable. Fabric gloves are more than ever in favor.

The pointed toe is noticeable in all shoes.

Hats in light are seen on the new parade.

African brown is a good color for jackets.

Almost all of the new suit coats are long styled.

The sweater collar is made of cashmere.

Cherry red is seen in some of the new blouses.

Taffeta and kitten's ear crepe are in vogue.

A black alpaca poke bonnet has a blue effect emphasized by a dash of blue of black velvet.

Remonts was a goddess of justice and vengeance, in Greek mythology Remonts was a goddess personifying punishment of the divine distribution to every man of the precise share of fortune, good and bad.

ACTION BETTER THAN WORDS

Low Lieutenant Colonel Whittlesey Answered the Boche Demand That He Surrender.

Lieut. Col. Charles W. Whittlesey, commander of the "Lost Battalion," and winner of the first congressional medal of the war, has been dubbed "Go-to-Hell Whittlesey," because of his reputed pitiful answer to the German demand to surrender. Now comes Lieut. Arthur McKee, adjutant of the battalion, with the complete story which he tells in "Everybody's." "As a matter of fact," writes Lieutenant McKee, "the colonel sent back no written answer whatever. To those nearest him he did suggest that the Boches could take the well known easy descent. But the most complete, practical and splendid answer that could have been made to the German proposal he made as he finished reading the note.

"On the side of the hill our airplane Halvan agent had spread out his panel to indicate the battalion's position to the divisional planes that had been trying to drop message cylinders and even food within reach of the command. That panel was an equilateral cloth triangle, more than six feet long. Moreover, with the exception of a small black patch, it was white. The thought sprang into the colonel's mind that, inclined as it was on comparatively open ground, the big signal device was probably visible in the Boche lines. And it was white. Messages and food were essential enough, God knows, but suppose the Germans mistook that panel for surrender?

"What ordered it taken in at once. That was his answer.

"What words could have been as magnificent?"

WILL NOT BE MADE RELIC

Clemenceau's Coat to Be Missing From Collection of Memorabilia of the World's Famous.

Apparently M. Clemenceau's practical mind and hate of show are going to deprive his admirers of the right of gazing at the famous perforated coat and waistcoat in one of the Paris museums, for this is not to be included among the relics of greatness for a future age, like Nelson's coat and the Napoleon relics. There have been some very curious souvenirs of the kind, apart from the half-smoked cigars of royalties which are treasured by some. Most curious of all undoubtedly was Lord Anglesey's "leg." Lord Anglesey lost a leg at Waterloo and it was buried in the garden of the villa to which he was taken. In after years he used to recall how parties of people visited the spot "to view the grave." A relic of another kind was George IV's famous coat, and it was a pleasant trait in the very little king that he squeezed himself at Dettlingen into the coat he had worn years before at Oudenarde. Horace Walpole's "researches" after Queen Mary's tomb, Wolsey's red hat, the pipe which King Tromp smoked during his last sea fight, and the spur which King William struck into the flank of "Sorell" are famous.—Westminster Guardian.

Mineral That Can Be Malted.

Charles E. Sweet has discovered a preparation of silver which may be made in a plastic form like wax or clay, and also thinned down to the consistency of paint, according to the Little Journal, Cambridge, Mass. Copper, copper alloys and bronzes may be worked in the same manner. By simple technology, the preparation may be reduced to the pure metal without any change in its form or shape.

A sculptor may work it in the rough or in relief, just as he does his usual materials, or in dilution it may be applied to a metallic surface with a brush. It greatly simplifies the problem of artistic work of a high order, although, of course, it is more expensive than stamped wares. Medallions and figures may thus be presented in the original without the need of casting, and such articles as silver sets may be made of which every member is original and unique. It provides a new medium for artists. The invention has been patented.

He Wears a Necklace.

Did you ever hear of a man wearing a necklace? Well, that is what the male Canadian warbler does, while on the female of this attractive bird there is only the slightest indication of a necklace, says the American Forestry association, Washington, which is conducting the nation-wide bird-house building contest among school children. The warbler's necklace of black spots shows up very strikingly on his olive green and yellowish throat and breast. On the back the bird is of a slate gray color with the tail more of an olive-brown tone. This is a very lively bird. It is very common all for more than a few seconds before it dashes out at some tempting bit to eat. It is partial to the wooded banks of streams. It usually keeps in underbrush near the ground.

Shells as Food.

America possesses some of the largest chicken hatcheries in the world, a single establishment sometimes having a capacity of 225,000 eggs. One room in such a hatchery has 33,000 eggs in process of incubation at one time. An interesting by-product of the industry are the shells which accumulate in mountainous piles. They are not wasted, however, but are ground and sold to chicken raisers for feed, principally as bone builder, thus completing the cycle to everyone's satisfaction.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Learning.

Learning, joined with true knowledge, is an essential and graceful ornament, and an implement of wonderful use and consequence. . . . I would rather prefer wisdom, judgment, civil customs and modest behavior, than mere and more literal learning.—Montaigne.

Distinguished by Wig.

Thus James Stewart in his imitable "Pincosinos, or the Whole Art of Hairdressing," first published in London in 1782, tells how the wig gradually came to "declare the man." He speaks of "the huge tie peruke of the man of law," of the "long bob or natty scratch" of the tradesman and the "hunting peruke of the country gentleman," while "the merchant men of business and of letters were distinguished by the grave, full bottom, or more moderate tie neatly curled."

Triumph Over Selfishness.

The toughest nut any man ever tried to crack is a selfish heart. It takes a giant hammer, swung by superhuman power to do that. But once the shell is broken, the sweetest meat ever tasted drops out.

REV. CUMMINGS' FIRST ADDRESS

As Head of St. Stephen's Church,
New York City, a Tribute to Bishop Hayes and Those Who Preceded Him.

The opening address delivered by Rev. Francis P. J. Cummings, P. R., on his first appearance as pastor of St. Stephen's Church, New York city, was a tribute to those who had preceded him in charge of that great church and a consecration of himself to the service of his new parishioners.
Rev. Cummings, who was formerly in charge of St. Columba's Church, East Kingston, was transferred to St.
Stephen's upon the elevation of Bishop Hayes to be archbishop of
New York.

Rev. Cummings spoke as follows:
Various occurrences at various times stir men's hearts with various emotions.

The events but of yesterday that culminated in the elevation of your pastor and bishop to the exalted office of archbishop of this great metropolitan see must, of a certainty, have aroused within your bosoms, mingled feelings of pardonable pride and of profound sorrow.

It was yours to rejoice because an episcopal honor so distinguished, so high, so holy, had come to one who had entered very deeply into your lives; to one whose every thought had no fancy save your welfare, spiritual and temporal; whose every word voiced no sound save that of cheer and inspiration; whose every deed had no motive save that of your ultimate good and your final, eternal triumph; in fine, to one whose very image was permanently engraved upon the fleshy tablets of your human hearts.

And yet none but you could know how those same hearts pined at his departure, sorrowed at his withdrawal, yea, wept at his leave-taking.

The tomorrow of the future, imminent or remote, is whirling towards us with ever increasing rapidity, impelled in its inevitable course, by the unseen charioteer, the harbinger of that morose message—a message now inscrutable, but which, upon its delivery, will make its own peculiar appeal, and demand its own uncon-promising response.

Today the Hand of Divine Providence, manifested in the appointment by His Grace, our most beloved archbishop, directs my humble footsteps hither, and places me in your midst, seeking an abiding place, where, with God's grace, I may continue the labor of the Lord in the vineyard of my predecessors.

Winds of the illustrious and saintly men who graced this pulpit, an unbroken line of heroic figures, brilliant of intellect, philosophers in action, keen of foresight, yea, gifted even with prophetic vision, small wonder indeed, is it, that I assume my responsibility in fear and trembling.

High was their standard of service, higher still their ideals, but reached aloft, far above those standards, on a plain paralleled only by those soul-stirring, ennobling, beautiful ideals, rest the brilliant achievements that they accomplished here for God and country.

The venerable Dr. Jeremiah Cummings, the founder of your beautiful church was a great orator and social leader in the days of that great genius Archbishop Hughes.
His was a mind of gigantic possibilities, his gift, that of convertmaking, and his muse that of a great musician. He endeavored to bring into the hearts of your ancestors, the angelic strains of the first Christmas morn, that coming irresistibly, like the shepherds of old, aye, and their posterity, might remain to become a great institution that you are today, Doctor Cummings taught them from the pulpit of the preeminent founder of the church, the great fundamental principles of the Christian life, the commandments of God and of the church, the sanctifying fountains of grace, the seven sacraments; and the duties of their state in life.

Well had he succeeded, only to be followed by that wonderful constructive mind, that more than generous heart, and great magnetic personality—the Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn. Doctor McGlynn spent himself and was spent in the uplift of the poor, and in the embellishment of your great church, and made it known and famous throughout the world.

Bishop Colton took up the work of his predecessor, with forceful methods of economy, with great zeal and abiding piety, and cleared of all debt this well-nurtured garden of the faith. Later, as bishop of Buffalo, his pious, zealous, economic spirit was most effective.

Then came the great missionary spirit of Bishop Casack, who was a leader in the pulpit of his day. The Apostolic Fathers, of whom he was the founder—all of them, delightful, brilliant, apostolic men—abide with you today, as a living testimony to the practical piety, the absorbing zeal, and the broad leadership of Bishop Casack, who, later, as bishop of Albany, left footprints on the sands of time, never to be effaced.

And lastly, perhaps, the noblest, most gentle of such an imposing array of God's anointed ministers, be whom we call our own, New York's fair son, the youthful, zealous, pious, devoted, brilliant Bishop Hayes, now archbishop of this diocese.

The wild, surging theories and practices of a materialistic age, drew the nations into a world-war and dragged into its vortex the great American republic.

The myriad hearts of this great nation throbbled on one beat, and rose and fell with the rising and falling of the battle's tide. And the fight went on—till the victory was won.

There stood you in the midst of it, a leader, an excellence, overturning an engaging field of spiritual war. With a calm, serene, offensive, spiritual, undisturbed, unflinching, and almost—admirable to him by His Holiness, Pope Benedict XV, weeks of Connecticut.

watched the conflict from the towers, as it were, of St. Stephen's.

Outwardly calm, yet inwardly a consuming fire of zeal for the faith of soldier, sailor and marine, his apparently cold, steel gray eye, like that of the lion, took in the situation —the spiritual needs of the fighting forces—and, with his chaplain brothers plunged here and there and everywhere to snatch the strong-armed sons of the nation from the dangers to their souls, and gave to them the sweet consolation of Holy Church as they fought and fell and died, fearless of the roar of cannon, and the shriek of shell.

Mothers dear! Your tears were falling! Fathers, brave and loyal!
Your bosoms were aching! Your bishops-pastor, with other members of the American hierarchy of the Catholic National War Council, marshalled the forces of the brotherhood of man in the great order of the Knights of Columbus, who supplied necessities, comfort and ease to your sons, and behold, your afflicted spirits were turned into one of joy and thanksgiving to Almighty God! A piety and zeal that knew no bounds, a leadership that reached over two hemispheres, and efficiency and service of the highest order, were the distinguishing features of the career of Bishop Hayes, now archbishop of
New York.

These illustrious pastors are my predecessors; their duties, now my heritage; their record, my stimulus; their benediction, my hope.

In view of these mighty ties that bind you to the past like hoops of steel—a thought, a query, at this moment flashes across my mind, it strikes with a vividness of the light-ning's flash—the suddenness of the assassin's blow—"Am I a stranger here?"

Human frailty, that ill to which all flesh is heir, gives it harborage, but only for a moment, a brief and fleeting moment. With dispatch, as swift as God's own grace, I cast the thought from me. The sinister and ominous suggestion is spurned as unworthy of notice. For, in the vocabulary of God's Church there is no such word; even from the language of the Christian, it is eliminated; in the sweet discourse of Catholic manhood and Catholic womanhood, it has no place. The pastor of a people is the shepherd of the fold. The Sacred Scriptures put upon his lips those characteristic words: "I am the good Shepherd." "I know mine and mine know me."

Not as a stranger then, do I come to you, not as strangers do I greet you. On this beautiful morning of the fair month of June, the month dedicated to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, removed only a few days from the feast, I open wide the portals of my heart to receive you, and, with all the sincerity and earnestness at my humble command, into its very depths, I bid you enter, there to remain my parishioners and my friends, the flock committed to my care until the last rays of the declining sun as he descends upon the span allotted to you and to me shall sink forever beyond life's horizon, down into the great eternity.

May God grant me the courage to dare, the power to do, the grace to carry on your work and mine as we find it here. As in the life of God and in the wisdom of the church, we may interpret the great social problems of today as it discloses itself to us in the parish of St. Stephen's.

Let there be no barrier to mar our progress—let there be no misunderstanding to undermine the close, warm family, spirit of love and of friendship that in God's name will be ours. Henceforth I am yours. My every hour is at your disposal; my every thought shall be focused upon your well-being; my every prayer that God will shower down upon each one of you a plentiful abundance of the graces and blessings that He alone knows how to bestow.

Give me then your hearts; lend me your co-operation, let us go forth to live and to labor, to serve and to pray together. Amen

GLASCO.

Glasco, July 7.—Mr. and Mrs.
Ramon Diaz, having returned from their wedding tour, spent the Fourth and the week end at the Weeks homestead. They left on Sunday evening for Brooklyn, where they will reside temporarily.

The Fourth was a glorious day if one didn't mind the heat. Usual quiet prevailed here to gratify their thirst for celebrating. Glascoans went out of town in all directions.

Two notable events in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Joy were celebrated by them on the Fourth in a quiet, restful way at their home. It was the fifty-first anniversary of their marriage, and the seventy-second birthday of Mr. Joy.

The first quarterly payment on pledges to the Methodist centenary fund were due July 1st. L. S. Hommel, treasurer, will be in waiting at the church on Wednesday, July 9th, to receive all such payments, and will be glad to meet a prompt response from all of the list of subscribers. The wave of enthusiasm that made the centenary drive such a success has subsided into a sober business proposition of meeting one's obligations. Let us meet them promptly and be assured that our gifts will help to hasten the dawn of that day when the way shall be known upon earth. His savior health among all nations.

Friends of the Rev. N. Hess of Hemlockville, late of Glasco, regret to hear he has met with the misfortune of losing the family horse. The domestic horse was neither very handsome nor very speedy, but he was as faithful as old dog Tray and died in the harness.

Mrs. John Sipe, who is recovering from an operation for gall stones at the Benedictine Sanitarium, is resting comfortably and gaining slowly, but is still very weak.

Give a thought to the birds in this hot, dry weather. Put a bird bath in a shady spot in the back yard. Fill it full to the top so the birds can reach the water easily as they perch on the rim, and then a way back and sit down and watch them take in water. Change the water every day.

Among visitors here were Fourth week. Bert Jones, Harry Jones and William Moore of Brooklyn, Boston Delaney of Newark, Indianapolis, spiritual jurisdiction, Joseph Maurice of New York, Boston here and abroad—admirable to him by His Holiness, Pope Benedict XV, weeks of Connecticut.

MORAN SCHOOL OPEN.

July and August Classes Well Attended—Ideally Situated.

The idea seems to prevail in the minds of some people that all schools close during July and August. A visit at the Moran Business School, Burgin building, corner of Main and Fair streets, would convince them that such is not the case; that there is at least one place in this vicinity where knowledge—practical money-making knowledge—may be acquired in even the warmest of weather, with the minimum of discomfort.

Like the universities in the larger cities, special summer sessions are a feature of the yearly program of Moran School activities.

The Moran School is ideally situated. It is surrounded on all sides by beautiful environments, the open space and numerous windows admitting a plentiful supply of fresh air. The students receive the benefit of every breeze that blows.

The special classes during July and August are well attended. The regular instructors are in charge, as usual, throughout the summer, and everyone should know what personal help means in the mastering of a subject.

There are no entrance requirements at the Moran Business School other than a willingness to learn. All are welcome, whether from grade school, high school or college. Students preparing to enter college in the fall often utilize the summer months in the acquiring of shorthand skill or knowledge of other business subjects.

The office of the Moran School is open every day from 8 to 5 o'clock for the registering of students in all departments. The instruction being practical, one may enter on any school day—for full time or half-day sessions—without disadvantage.

Life in the Open

The Adirondacks
and the Thousand Islands

For pure delight of life in the open, there are few places like the Adirondacks!

Famous men have written much about its natural beauties. But, more convincing—tired city dwellers go there summer after summer, to get away from work, to forget business, to absorb the spirit and freedom of the woods, the lakes, the hills; to play, to sport, to live close to Nature; to camp out—fish, hunt, canoe, tramp, golf; to breathe new air, meet new people; to seek for a time, at least, their heart's desire—a full life in the open.

The Adirondacks will put into you, in a week, zip and freshness for a whole season of work.

The Thousand Islands of the St. Lawrence, just west of the Adirondacks, are a vacation in themselves. All along our shores, and the shores of our Canadian border-land, is most interesting international Social life. It is the motor-boating metropolis of the world. It is famous for its Bass and Muscallonge fishing. It is the starting point for the trip down the rapids to Montreal.

The United States Railroad Administration invites you to travel and offers Summer Excursion fares. Your local ticket agent or nearest Consolidated Ticket Office will help you plan your trip. Write for illustrated booklet, "The Adirondacks and the Thousand Islands," containing lists of hotels, etc., addressing the nearest Travel Bureau.

SING TO BE AT POINT TONIGHT

The Community Sing will be held at Kingston Point Park this evening instead of on the city hall green and it is expected that the pleasant surroundings, together with the presence of the Municipal Band and Harry Dodge as leader, will assure an even better attendance than heretofore. The singers will be located on the grassy slope facing the Hudson. Taking into account the time necessary to reach the point, the singing will not be started until 8:30 o'clock, but all are asked to be ready promptly at that hour, thus making it possible to close at 9 o'clock or 9:15. Mr. Dodge requests all to bring their song books and hopes to see 500 men present in addition to the ladies who have been regular attendants at the sings.

Eye of the Starfish.
At the end of each arm in the starfish there is a little red eye. It does not form an image, but has considerable sensitiveness in distinguishing different degrees of light, enabling the fish to become aware of distant illumination that differs from the surrounding area.

Carl and Cohen Return From Trip to the Original American Sahara, Where They Almost Annihilated the Clam and Lobster Crop.

Ralph Cohen and Herbert Carl returned Monday from a 1,000 mile auto trip through New England to Vinal Haven, Maine. They left New York city on July 1, guests of Joseph Leopold and his son, Leonard, who were making a business trip to the granite quarries of the Leopold Construction Co. of New York city. Added to the party in New York was John Sloan of Chicago, who is extensively interested in granite block quarries at Alexandria Bay with the Leopold Co. The party arrived at Vinal Haven the morning of the third day after a two hour steamboat trip on the Penobscot Bay from Rockland. After a thorough inspection of the quarries the whole managerial force of the construction company was set to work to secure claims and lobsters for the party's lunch, as Mr. Leopold had contracted to furnish enough sea food to take all the kinks out of Ralph's belt. The force seemed to be in luck and enough clams and lobster were taken out of the bay to put Ralph in the corner in about two hours. Still the most difficult part of the contract was to be filled. Enough lobster was to be caught to provide lunch on the homeward trip. Business had to be totally suspended and the whole organization had to be put in motion, about 200 men must get busy to save the reputation of Mr. Leopold, as when he arrives at Vinal Haven most of the population feel they should have a holiday. His men who never fail him were true to the last and enough fine lobster was packed in the car to trail the party by the shells all the way to New York, and there will be no lack in Ralph's belt for the next six months at least. All in fact were looking sleek and fat except Mr. Sloan, who was an object of sympathy his early education being sadly neglected in that windy city of Chicago as to proper diet. The last day's mileage was 355 and the Kingstons struck the feathers somewhat weary but voted Mr. Leopold and his son hosts of the highest order.

FOOD FOR TODAY.

The onion is one of the most valuable vegetables, and should be eaten freely throughout the year. A little sprig of parsley eaten after eating onions will remove the objectionable odor.

Onions Stuffed With Nuts.—Boil even sized onions until tender, remove the centers, chop and mix these with butter, chopped nuts, salt, pepper and bread crumbs. Fill the onions and pour around them a little thin cream or rich milk, or any broth with which to baste them while baking. Serve as a garnish to a platter of pork chops or they may take the place of meat.

Baked Ham.—Soak a ham over night. In the morning put in a kettle one onion, one carrot, six cloves, six peppercorns, one bay leaf and water to cover. Simmer for two hours. When tender remove the skin, place on a rack in a baking pan and bake two to three hours, basting with cider and a cupful of water from the ham liquor. When done stir in a tablespoonful of brown sugar into the cider sauce and cover the ham and brown. Serve hot with the liquor from the pan poured around it, or served in a gravy boat.

String beans are delicious cooked for several hours with a piece of sweet, firm salt pork. They are good cooked with olive oil or with bacon. Season them sometimes with cheese or chopped parsley or chives.

Hot Potato Salad.—Roll half a dozen potatoes and slice while hot. Fry thin slices of bacon and cut them into small bits, using half a cupful. Pour off the fat, leaving two tablespoonfuls. Stir the hot potatoes in the fat, add a pinch of mustard, a dash of onion and salt to taste. Stir until slightly cooling, gradually one-half cupful of salad vinegar. Let the dressing cool, add the bacon and a small onion slice, chopped, then the potatoes. Serve very hot.

Nippen Salad.—To one cupful of crab meat add one dozen stuffed olives, chopped, two cupfuls of celery and French dressing well seasoned to taste. Serve with mayonnaise dressing and garnished with capers and pickles.

Read to Wealth.

HIGH LIGHTS AND LOW LIGHTS

In Colored Social Circles at Kingston Point Lead to Police Court, and the First Chapters Close With the Court's Sentence.

Stanley Braddon, a negro brickyard worker, boarding at No. 242 North street, fined $10 for slapping the face of Mrs. Margaret Watson of Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Margaret Watson, 19 years old and colored, of Poughkeepsie, sentenced to Bedford Hills until discharged by law.

These are the leading characters in a negro drama entitled "High Lights and Low Lights." Braddon is a burly negro, young and a fine type of man, physically. Mrs. Watson is small and petite and was groomed in a dress of gray material. She is also the mother of a two year old girl, and has enjoyed the bonds of matrimony for four years. Her husband, who is an absent factor from the scene, is spending some time as the guest of the state at Elmira Reformatory to which he was sentenced last April in Poughkeepsie.

It was during the windup of the "du" epidemic that Mrs. Watson's father, who resides at Kingston Point, became ill with the "du" and she came up from Poughkeepsie with her baby to help care for him. When father grew well and strong again she returned to Poughkeepsie only to find that during her six weeks' absence from home hubby had been arrested, tried and sentenced. For what crime she was unaware although she learned that he had gone to Elmira at the request of the police authorities.

Decorated Day while Mrs. Watson was strolling through North street she passed the domicile of Stanley Braddon, who was sitting on the stoop. Stanley admired her face and strolled forth to meet her and make her acquaintance. Alas, it was a sad day for Margaret that Stanley crossed her path, for it led to her being arraigned before Judge Schirick this morning, but that is getting ahead of the story.

It was a case of love at first sight. Sweet are true love's kisses, as interchanged by Stanley and Margaret. He would present her with one and naturally as she was not selfish she would return the kiss.

Holidays seem to get mixed up in a peculiar way in this tangled romance for Margaret and Stanley did not meet again until the Fourth of July, and glad was Stanley that he had met her again. True love will not be denied and he "dated her up" for Sunday evening. Alas, Margaret overlooked the date, and now see what happened.

Stanley met her on North street, and reproached her for "standing him up." His reproaches took the form of slams in the face and he also knocked her down. This was regular cave man stuff.

She called for assistance, the police auto reached the scene and Sergeant Phinney placed Stanley under arrest on a charge of assault in the third degree. Stanley was arraigned that afternoon before Judge Schirick, and after a trial was found guilty, and fined $10, which he paid.

Now here is where Stanley took a mean revenge on his erstwhile sweetheart. He swore out a warrant for her arrest on a charge of being a disorderly person, and Margaret, in default of $200 bail, languished in the county jail overnight, and so missed seeing one of the best circuses that has shown in Kingston in some time. Whether Stanley had money enough left to see the circus after paying his fine is not known.

In the same court room that saw him relieved of ten precious "iron men" Stanley saw his former sweetheart found guilty as charged and sentence imposed. While she is in duration vile her baby child will be taken care of by her parents.

Those who assisted Stanley in wreaking vengeance on Margaret were John Liscomb and Willie Oliver. John and Willie are negroes also. John's testimony was along the same lines as that given by Stanley. Willie merely testified to seeing Stanley and Margaret together often.

ATHLETE IS NOW VINDICATED

War Has Proved That Sensible Devotion to Sports and Games Was Time Well Spent.

Much was said before the war in depreciation of the young man who devoted himself to athletics, remarks the Louisville Courier-Journal. His early death was prophesied by the busy-going sting of a fellow who took his exercise with his right elbow and his recreation at bar and caravansary. Whenever an athlete died, his muscular development was set down as the cause of his untimely end.

It has been made plain by the war that the athletic youth is the preferable youth to fight the enemy. It never was proved that he was less able than others to fight life's battles in the figurative sense of the phrase, or that he died sooner than the round-punched, soft-armed, flabby-legged man.

In the army and in the navy athletic sports and games are encouraged, promoted, valued. Swimming, tennis, boxing, rowing, football, are regarded as being worth more than the time that is devoted to them. Athletes who are supple and well set up, as well as young and courageous, are the most promising candidates. It has been found that the "right hands" of the man who has ridden to bounds are as valuable in manipulating an airplane as they are in taking a spirited horse over the hunting fields and over fences. Physical training of every sort is a good asset for the young man, and how much more easily the candidate who is forty or beyond has fitted himself for military service if he has kept up since college days the habit of exercise and out-of-door life.

IN ABE MARTIN'S COUNTRY

Where Wisdom Centers and "the World Do Move" but in Decidedly Leisurely Manner.

All Brown county seemed to be waiting for us when late we reached the "picnic grounds." Abe Martin types hung round the roadway to the grove. Ginger pop, orange cider, ice cream cones were disappearing down warm and thirsty throats. All through the grove there were grateful voices talking gently of the saving of the corn crop by the rains. Coats and collars were not as numerous as on Fifth avenue, but kind hearts and friendly visiting and exchange of confidences were as evident as anywhere in all the world. Veterans of '01 were linking up their war with this, and one elaborately whiskered former earnestly considered me: "I fought four years to make good Lincoln's word, and I guess our boys today will stand by Woodrow."

Honest, homely, shrewd and wise, they talked Abe Martin's language: "It's nice to live in a little town where you don't have to 'take somebody's class' to hold your own." "A hicker is nearly always wrong." "A sympathizer is a feller that's fer you as long as it don't cost anything." "Twitlies is just one decent clear after another."—Lyman P. Powell in the Living Church.

The Irregular Male.
Oliver Reelin, on leave in Turkey, was praising the American girls engaged in war work overseas. "And they're good girls," he said.

Another girl, I believe, than our country ever turned out before. "They're certainly better than the old ladies, male and female, who spy on them on the pretense of looking after their morals."

"One of these old ladies, an elderly New York broker, was talking to a canton girl in Paris. "Yes," the girl said, "I adore my work. The only thing I complain of is the irregularity of the male." "The old broker heaved a sigh and tried to take the girl's hand, but she drew it away. "Ah, yes," he said, "the males were irregular, too, in my young days. As we used to put it—Never trust a female too far nor a male too near."

Preserve the Trees.
Probably the most highly prized tree in the world is the avocado pear tree in California, which returns an annual income of $300,000, and was once insured for $300,000. As to trees in general, immediate money returns are regarded, in most minds, as the natural enemy. A "landscape architect" which caused the "robbers" no complications, was the cutting of a splendid yellow poplar which for several generations had been a landmark among the Cumberland hills. The forest monarch, yielded over 2,000 feet of first-class lumber, valued at $11,000. There was no one to cry "Woodman, spare that tree!" whose felled counted against its destruction. The countryside has lost a natural beauty never to be restored; the owner has money in his pocket. As Joyce Kilmer wrote: "Only God can make a tree."

Damascus Oldest City.
The traditions of the East, which so often has proved full of historical truth, sets down Damascus as the oldest city on earth still inhabited by man. It was a capital before Abraham. The old Babylonian ideograph indicated "Fortress of the Amorites," and there is ample reason for admitting this regarding Damascus. Thus Damascus becomes the stronghold of the legendary inhabitants of Syria reputed to have been as tall as cedars, and so set down in the Bible. Their name occurs in the first Babylonian inscription dating back to 2300 B. C.
